CHICAGOAN RELEASED BY GANG OF KIDNAPERS

CHICAGO, June 19.—Elmer J. Whitman, nephew of Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox baseball club, was back in Chicago today none the worse for his experience late yesterday with gangsters who apparently mistook him for one of their enemies.

He was seized at noon as he left a Loop building and was released last night eight miles north of Danville, Ill. He reported the kidnaping to the Danville police after walking to that city.

TARIFF MEASURE TO STAND SAYS WATSON DEFENDING RATES

Expects No Revision For Twelve Years, Says Senator

WASHINGTON, June 19.—There will be no general or partial revision of the tariff within the next twelve years.

This was the unqualified prediction today of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader of the senate following that body's action in asking the U. S. tariff commission to launch seventeen separate tariff inquiries.

Leaders of the Democratic-insurgent coalition, who fought the higher industrial rates of the new law, however, insisted congress would be compelled to act if the tariff commission eventually reported the new rates were too high. Watson replied that individual rates could be changed by the president under his flexible powers and that congress would find it impossible to change individual rates.

The senate's action in ordering the investigations rather stunned tariff leaders, who had expected opposition to the new rates to die with the signing of the bill. The senate, however, by an overwhelming unrecorded vote, directed the commission to investigate differences in costs of production in this country and abroad, on men's and women's shoes, furniture, cement, hose, shovels, spades, scoops, forks, rakes, scythes, sickles, grass hooks, corn knives, drainage tools, wire fencing and wire netting.

In the past the commission has required months of inquiry to render such reports. In this instance, it will have no report ready for congress before the congressional elections and possibly not before the end of the next session of congress.

This would throw the tariff fight into the next congress, which would convene in December, 1932, unless called into special session sooner. In any event, it will be a year or more before congress acts upon the tariff again—even if Watson were wrong.

"When the tariff commission reports next year, in response to this resolution, it will prove that the new tariff law was essentially justified in fixing the new rates now questioned," said Watson. "There will be no new tariff bill for twelve years—at least. No administration within the next decade will attempt to revise the tariff by congressional action. It will rely upon the President's flexible powers to correct inaccuracies."

Reports were received meanwhile by Francis H. Eble, commissioner of customs, that the new tariff law had gone into effect "without a hitch." All the new rates have been put into effect and Eble reported "no complaints."

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS JAILED AT BEREIA

BEREIA, O., June 19.—After spending a long, dreary night crowded in two cells of the village lockup, eleven high school pupils, who staged a premature Fourth of July celebration in conjunction with a fraternity initiation in the village square last night, were scheduled to be arraigned before Mayor George C. Goette today.

The boys were hurried into jail by Patrolman Stencil Demboski, who is one-half the Berea police force at night, for violating the anti-fireworks ordinance.

BLAST KILLS 35

MOSCOW, June 19.—The district mine manager and the ventilation engineer of the Maria mine, Lugansk, were arrested today on charges of negligence in connection with a second gas explosion in the mine which resulted in the death of thirty-five miners and injuries to twenty-nine.

DELEGATES VOTE TO HOLD MEETING HERE YEARLY HEREAFTER

Whitman, employed by his brother-in-law, was making a collection when the kidnapers seized him. As he left the building a car drove up to the curb, while two men approached him on the sidewalk and forced him into the car.

They took $46 from his pockets and then made him lie on the car floor. After hours of riding, he was released. It is believed the abductors intended to take an enemy for a ride and picked up Whitman by mistake.

NO LONGER QUEEN

PARIS, June 19.—Miss Mabel Boll, of New York, so-called "diamond queen" who made a non-stop flight from New York to Havana with Charles A. Levine, lost her "title" today when police seized her jewels for alleged non-payment of a dressmaker's bill.

The seizure was made in a fashionable hotel off the Champs Elysees where Miss Boll is staying.

MORROW VICTORY IS CAUSING INTEREST AMONG POLITICIANS

Wets Are Delighted—Hoover Support Is Promised

WASHINGTON, June 19.—No single political event since the 1928 election has so aroused and interested the politicians of the capital as the victory of Dwight W. Morrow in the New Jersey primary by the astonishing plurality of 300,000 votes.

Morrow ran as a wet. Other than his own outstanding personality and record of achievement he presented no other issue save that of repealing the eighteenth amendment. And he defeated one of President Hoover's closest friends, Franklin W. Fort, who made the issue clear-cut by standing as a bone-dry.

There are almost as many explanations and interpretations of Morrow's tremendous victory in Washington as there were votes for his dry opponent.

The wets, of course, hailed the banker-diplomat as a new Moses, as the new and better type of anti-prohibitionist who will furnish the leadership of their movement in the future. Their jubilation is almost boundless.

The dries, divided and admittedly somewhat downcast over the magnitude of Fort's defeat, sought to minimize the result with the explanation that Jersey was always wet anyway, and that one wet, more or less, won't make any difference.

The cautious middle-of-the-roaders temporized with the theory that Morrow's victory could be ascribed to many factors in addition to the prohibition issue—the business depression, his outstanding record, and the general desire of the voters to put some new blood into politics and the senate.

Be that as it may, the very number and variance of the theories bore eloquent testimony to the jarring effect of the result on those politicians who try to keep one jump ahead of public opinion.

Even President Hoover was moved to unusual action of a public statement. It said:

"The White House will give every possible support to the Republican nominee for the senate in New Jersey. The president and the administration have every confidence that Mr. Dwight Morrow will be the next senator from New Jersey."

In view of all the circumstances, the White House statement was interesting and significant. Not in any of the other primaries has Mr. Hoover felt called upon to issue any pledge of support to the victor.

Even when a member of his own cabinet, James J. Davis, was nominated in Pennsylvania the White House was silent. The mere fact of its issuance in this instance contributed to the political discussion.

FIRM SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, June 19.—Woody and Company members of the New York Stock Exchange, were suspended for insolvency today, it was announced from the rostrum of the exchange floor, shortly after the opening of the market.

BROCK, SCHLEE MAKE FAST CROSS COUNTRY FLIGHT AND RETURN

Beat Speed Record; Forced Down To Obtain Fuel

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 19.—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, Detroit aviators, rested here today from the rigors of a flight which won for them the record of having made the fastest round trip coast to coast flight across the United States. They made the two-way flight in thirty-two hours.

Setting out from here Tuesday the two fliers reached San Diego just thirteen hours, fifty-five minutes and thirty seconds after taking off, thus setting an east to west record. They stopped at San Diego only long enough to refuel their plane and took off again on the return trip.

Electrical storms and strong head winds made the return flight a perilous one. Despite the bad weather the airmen flew the return course in sixteen-hours and fifty minutes, making an elapsed time of thirty-one hours and fifty-eight minutes for the entire flight.

They were forced to land at Tallulah, La., yesterday for additional fuel.

Their arrival here yesterday was marred when the plane, a Lockheed-Vega, ran out of gas and crashed into a fence at the municipal airport. The plane was damaged.

The stop at Tallulah for fuel threw some doubt on the flier's claim for a record in that it was not a non-stop flight.

Brock and Schlee bettered by more than seven hours a previous record set by Lieutenant James Doolittle in 1922 when he made a similar flight between Jacksonville and San Diego.

SMITH ENDS SECOND ROUND WITH 147 IN BRITISH GOLF OPEN

Expect Jones Will Finish Well Below This Figure

HOYLAK, England, June 19.—MacDonald Smith, New York professional and first of the American competitors to complete the second round of play today in the British open golf championship, carded a 77, for a total of 147 for the two rounds.

Yesterday Smith shot a 70, equaling the course record and tying Bobby Jones of Atlanta and Henry Cotton, English professional for first place. Unless Jones goes badly off form today Smith's 77 was believed by the "dopesters" to put his total for the two rounds well above the figure Jones should shoot.

His 77, however, was indicative of the higher scores generally which ruled today. Yesterday's heavy thunderstorm and intermittent rain throughout the night had slowed up the greens, some of them to the point of sluggishness.

Cotton, Jones' other partner in the three-way tie for first place yesterday, added to today's high scores by taking 38 strokes to come home, a total of 79 for the round and 149 for the two days' play.

Other scores today were: William Large 74-152; W. T. Twine, 78-156; Len Holland, 78-153; A. J. Isherwood, 77-152; D. C. Jones, 77-152; Ernest Whitcombe, 72-150; Tom Barber, 76-151.

Horton came home in 36 for 73 for today's round and a grand total of 145 strokes. He shot straight fours on the first seven of the incoming nine, a 5 on the seventh and a birdie 3 on the eighteenth to bring his average back to 4's.

This gave the Joplin professional low score, so far, for the tournament, and tied him with Archie Compston, British professional, for low score, so far, for today's round.

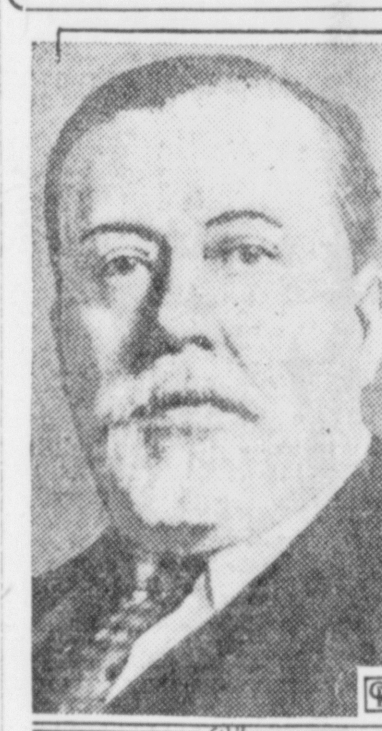

INSPECTOR KILLED

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 19.—The body of J. L. Malone, 24, city inspector for the state road commission, who was fatally injured by a truck near Welch, West Virginia, yesterday, was brought here today for burial.

PIONEER IS DEAD

NEW LEXINGTON, O., June 19.—Mrs. Mary Groff, 84, one of the pioneer citizens of Perry County, is dead at her home at Dixie, near here, today. She was born in the same farm house in which she died yesterday from infirmities. The longest trip Mrs. Groff ever made was from New Lexington to Columbus several years ago.

WEDS DANSEUSE

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan Opera Co., and America's foremost impresario and Rosina Galli, his premiere danseuse were married quietly at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Jersey City, N. J. Wednesday and sailed immediately for Cannes, Gatti-Casazza is known as the "business man of opera."

MANIAC FAILS TO KILL THIRD - APOLOGIZES

NEW YORK, June 19.—The massacre maniac apologized today for not committing his third murder as advertised.

In a letter flavored with symbols and code, the madman who has already killed two men, explained that the man marked for death in College Point at 9 o'clock last night, had saved his life by returning one of the "missing papers" and $37.00 in blackmail money.

The action of the almost-doomed victim, wrote the madman, also saved five others including a tall blonde woman.

But the brain-cracked correspondent took occasion to give a final warning to seven other persons who are slated to die by his hand.

EX-KAISER IS HERO OF BOAT ACCIDENT

AMSTERDAM, June 19.—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II stood revealed in a heroic light today.

While enjoying a motorboat cruise on Kager Lake, near Leyden, an accompanying craft caught fire after an engine explosion and the occupants, a man and woman were seriously injured.

The former Kaiser rushed to the burning boat and rescued the occupants.

The man and woman rescued by the ex-Kaiser later were identified as the Count Doehmoef and the Countess Lehndorf, both well-known in Central European society.

LIBERTY BONDS

NEW YORK, June 19.—Opening price quotations for Liberty bonds today were: 3 1/2's 100.23, and four 4 1/2's 102.23.

STILL SPECULATE ON RECONCILIATION

BUCHAREST, June 19.—While the members of the royal family continued to rest away from the capital at separated summer resorts, the Roumanian parliament had passed the family budget and speculation again turned on the hope of reconciliation between Queen Helen and King Carol.

Royal circles have insisted that a reconciliation actually had been accomplished at Scrovia Palace, where King Carol was reported to have paid Queen Helen and Crown Prince Michael an extended visit.

FAIL TO CONVICT DOG TRACK OWNER IN LONDON

LONDON, O., June 19.—Perry Von Schoik, one of three officials of the West Jefferson Kennel Club who were brought to trial on charges of permitting betting pools at the dog race track, was free today after the jury which heard the case was discharged when it failed to return a verdict yesterday.

The case was given to the jury of five women and seven men yesterday afternoon. Discharge of the jury marked the third time that trials for alleged gambling at the West Jefferson track ended in failure to convict.

The trial was the result of a raid June 5 when all alleged gambling equipment was seized by county officers. Two other track officials, P. V. Miller and B. A. Sargent, who were arrested with Von Schoik, are awaiting trial on similar charges.

Officials announced shortly after the dismissal of the jury last night that the track will be opened Friday night.

CONGRESSIONAL BRIDAL COUPLE

Congress is felicitating its newest bridegroom, Representative Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Eighteenth Ohio district. The bride was Mrs. Marie William Clerk and the ceremony was performed June 18 in Washington.

Carol Plans Efficiency Program For Roumania

New King Plans Business Administration; Admires American Business System And Hopes To Visit America

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1930 by International News Service)

BUCHAREST, June 19.—King Carol II, of Roumania, Europe's newest and most colorful monarch, wants to run his country the way an American industrial magnate runs his business.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service today, the new king outlined in detail his aims and ideals. Sitting behind his huge desk, Carol revealed his desire to put his country the way on a "purely business basis."

It was the first interview Carol had granted to an individual correspondent since his dramatic flight from exile in France and seizure of the throne from his son, Crown Prince Michael.

King Carol received this correspondent in a tiny room on the second floor of the royal palace. A gigantic walnut desk took up almost all the available floor space, and the four walls were lined with filled bookshelves that reached from floor to ceiling.

The massive desk was littered with documents, papers and books of all descriptions. Carol, looking older and more serious than in his exile days at his "love chateau" at Belleme, near Paris, was dressed in a beautifully-tailored white duck military uniform.

Gold epaulettes and buttons furnished the only contrast to the flat white of his uniform. He greeted this correspondent cordially. There was no pompous "majesty" in his manner, and as he warmed to the conversation he leaned forward in his chair and gesticulated with his hands.

The king's first words were almost apologetic.

"This," he said, signifying the tiny room with a sweep of his arm, "is my office."

"My conception of a king's job," he declared when the simple ceremony of introduction was finished.

Three alarms were sounded in rapid succession when the fire was discovered last night and a general alarm a short time later called seventeen companies to the scene.

When the flames spread to the photograph studio, a red smoke which issued from the structure choked the firemen. The smoke, which was caused by burning films, recalled the Cleveland Clinic disaster in May, 1923, when 218 lives were lost.

Fire Chief A. E. Nice said the fire was the most stubborn blaze that has occurred here during the past five years. Firemen worked for more than five hours. None of the firemen was seriously injured.

NEWARK, N. J., June 19.—Last straggling returns from Tuesday's election in New Jersey today swelled the overwhelming vote by which Dwight W. Morrow won the Republican nomination for the United States senate to more than 250,000 over the combined votes of his opponents. With only twenty-four scattered precincts out of the state's total of 3,304 still missing, Morrow had attained a plurality of almost 300,000 over his leading opponent, Representative Franklin W. Fort.

The vote stood: Morrow 417,058; Fort 117,459; former Senator Frelinghuysen, 47,750.

Ambassador Morrow expects to depart next week for Mexico City, where he will spend two months winding up his diplomatic work.

These regulations, Clancy maintains, will not add the thousands of tourists, and people who move on the border lakes and rivers in small boats and yachts. The treasury, he says, does not know how it can frame regulations to meet all emergencies.

Under present law, he said, small pleasure boats may leave and re-enter the country without reporting to customs.

FIGURES SHOW 15.2 PER CENT GAIN FOR 1930

Gain Very Favorable Says Supervisor; Unemployed Low.

Xenia's population as of April 1, 1930, is 10,498, a gain of 15.2 per cent over the population in 1920.

These figures were released Thursday afternoon by Wilbur H. Story, Springfield, census supervisor for this district, and show a population increase for this city of 1,388 in the last ten years. The census in 1920 was 9,110.

The total figure is based on the actual count by four Xenia enumerators and is preliminary and unofficial and subject to correction. When a complete count of families absent from the city when the census was taken is completed at the U. S. Census Bureau in Washington, complete official figures will be mailed from Washington, Mr. Story announces.

The population by wards follows:

Ward 1—2,897.
Ward 2—2,829.
Ward 3—2,767.
Ward 4—2,005.

Eighteen farms were enumerated in the Xenia district the report says. While the complete census figure is considerably under estimates made locally and by population.

Xenian Claims Bride In Beautiful Ceremony

INTERESTING among wedding of the summer season was that of Miss Dorothy Zucker, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Zucker of 1718 Grant St., Portsmouth and Mr. William A. Miller, only son of Attorney and Mrs. W. L. Miller, N. Detroit St., this city, which was beautifully solemnized at Trinity M. E. Church, Portsmouth Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock before a large assemblage of relatives and friends. The Rev. Arthur Staples read the single ring service.

The church was handsomely decorated with an arrangement of palms and ferns and cathedral candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. James Breese sang two nuptial numbers, her first being "All For You," by Bertrand Brown. She followed with "Beloved It Is Morn," by Aylward. As the guests assembled, Mrs. Frank Coburn, who presided at the organ, played "Andantino" and "Meditation" blending into strains of the "Lohengrin Wedding March" which announced the bride party. During the ceremony, MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was played softly. "Mendelssohn's Wedding March" was played as a recessional.

Messrs. Louis and Edward Zucker, brothers of the bride, served as ushers. Mr. Ben Trott was best man and Mrs. Ben Trott, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Mrs. Trott was gowned in Nile green chiffon with eury lace yoke and wore a picture hat of Nile green braid with gloves and shoes of egg shell kid. Her flowers were pink roses.

The bride, who is an attractive blonde, chose for her marriage a gown of delicate orchid point de esprit, touching the floor. She also wore a picture hat of orchid braid to harmonize and gloves and shoes of egg shell kid. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony.

Mrs. Miller is a graduate of Portsmouth High School and of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. She has been a teacher in the Highland School and is a member of Alpha Chapter of Delta Sigma Epsilon Sorority.

Mr. Miller is a graduate of Central High School, of Miami University and the law school at the University of Michigan. He is a member of the firm of Miller and Finney, engaged in the practice of law in this city and is also city solicitor of Xenia. He is a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity and the Lawyer's Club at the University of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will be at home at 214 W. Market St. after August 1. They will enjoy a honeymoon trip to points of interest through the East before coming here to establish their home.

Xenians who attended the wedding were: Attorney and Mrs. W. L. Miller, Misses Helen and Louise Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. George Geyer, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawkins.

Mrs. Gretta Blackley, Jamestown, is recovering nicely after undergoing an operation at McClellan Hospital, several days ago.

Miss Julia Averell, newly appointed cataloger at the Greene County District Library, arrived in Xenia Monday to begin her duties. Miss Averell came to Xenia from Western Reserve Library School, Cleveland, where she graduated this month. While in this city she will reside at the W. B. Praver home, 650 N. King St.

Mr. H. J. Goulard and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Goulard and two children, Westfield, N. J., are spending two weeks here with Mr. H. J. Goulard's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adair, N. Galloway St.

ANTIOCH WILL GET IMPROVED LIBRARY

Antioch College at Yellow Springs is listed among thirty colleges in widely scattered parts of the United States which will become beneficiaries of the Carnegie foundation in the acquisition of improved library facilities, according to dispatches from New York City.

Announcement was made Wednesday by President Frederick P. Keppel, of the Carnegie foundation that $425,000 has been voted by the organization during the present year to enable these colleges to improve their libraries in undergraduate teaching. The awards were made by a specially selected group for annual grants and the sums given will extend over a period of from two to five years.

Mr. and Mrs. William Maxwell, Roger St., returned home Wednesday afternoon after a few weeks trip through the West and Southwest. They were accompanied to Phoenix, Ariz., by their daughter, Martha Jane, Mr. Maxwell's sister, Miss Gertrude Maxwell and Miss Dorothy Winegar, who will remain during the summer months. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell returned home via the southwest.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Gilmore, Portsmouth, is spending several days in this city as the guest of Miss Elizabeth Irwin, N. Galloway St.

Mrs. Walker Gibney, Mrs. L. M. Morton and Mrs. Raymond Cox, motored to Waterbury Resort, Indian Lake, Thursday and were guests of Mrs. Forrest Dunkle.

Mr. William Rickles, who received severe wounds about the head Sunday morning as the result of a railroad accident, remains at McClellan Hospital and physicians report his condition most satisfactory.

Mrs. D. L. Croy and her sister Mrs. B. H. Shipley, Dayton, returned home Wednesday afternoon after a motor trip through the New England states. They were met at Albany, N. Y., by Mrs. Shipley's sons who returned with her.

Mr. R. Hayes Hamilton, who spent several weeks here, left Tuesday for Lenox, Mass., where he will spend the summer at the Aspinwall Hotel, with which he is connected. Mrs. Hamilton, who underwent treatment at McClellan Hospital, will not join her husband this summer because of ill health, and will remain in Xenia.

Mr. Forrest Galliger, Leaman Street, who underwent an operation at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton two weeks ago, was removed to his home here Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. D. O. Jones, new Xenian, underwent an operation here for the removal of her tonsils and adenoids Thursday morning.

Virgil and Junior Young, sons of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Young, Fairfield, underwent operations here Thursday morning for the removal of their tonsils and adenoids.

Mrs. W. T. Poague, W. Church St., and Mrs. James Poague, Washington, D. C., are spending two weeks in Atlantic City and are staying at the New Seaside Hotel.

Mr. James D. Adair N. King St., is spending this week in Grand Rapids, Mich., on a business trip.

BARBERS NEED SEX APPEAL

Chirotonsor Of Future Will Be Just Brimming With "It" Is Word.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—The barber of the future—beg your pardon, the Chirotonsor—will be—

Cultured and refined. Handsome as a collar ad. Mannered like a "sheik."

And just brimming with "it." The barber shop—beg your pardon again; the Chirotonsor—will be a luxurious place of privacy and repose.

All because of women. "We must face the fact," said C. A. Belmont, vice president of the Master Chirotonisors of America in convention here, "that the Chirotonsor's business is now concerned more with women than men. And that means a new type of bar—mean Chirotonsor—is coming in."

"Sex appeal is as important now in our trade as in the movies. Let no one mistake but that a woman would rather be barbered—er, Chirotonsor—by a man Chirotonsor than by a girl in a beauty shop."

"But the man must know how to win them. He must be suave and gentle. Upon his sex appeal depends his business success."

Has the invasion of women hurt the barber's male trade? "Quite the opposite," Chirotonsor Belmont said. "Men like all the new lotions and doo-dads the Chirotonsor has put in for women, only they don't admit it publicly."

Is the female more vain than the male?

"Not a bit," further quoth Chirotonsor Belmont. "Men patronize the shops that have the most mirrors."

And then Chirotonsor Belmont delivered a bit of intimate advice, this:

"Girls should never have their necks shaved. It's like kissing a porcupine to caress a swan-like neck that's been shaved a few times."

Is long hair coming back? "Like the corset, which was first put on Turkish women for punishment, long hair will remain but a memory," concluded this master Chirotonsor.

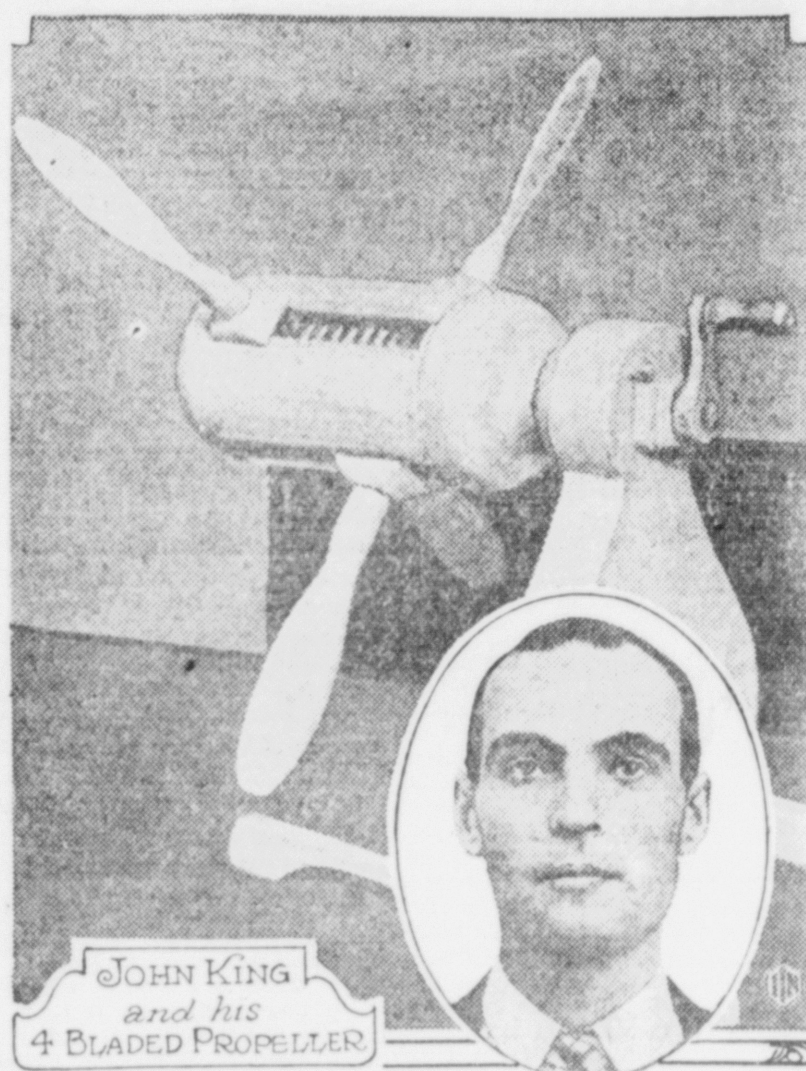

Why Chirotonsor? Because the organization's literature explains, Chiro means hand in Greek and tonsor head in Latin while barber comes from the Latin barbus, meaning whiskers.

"And," states the literature, "we are not whisker removers; we are artists with the hand upon the head and face."

But all arguments about derivatives set aside, the master Chirotonisors have declared the barber ineligible, and not the "true representative of a great profession."

Convict Would Trade Invention for Freedom

Behind Gray Walls of Joliet, John King Invents Four-Bladed Propeller.

JOHN KING and his 4 BLADED PROPELLER

JOLIET, Ill., June 17.—John King, an aged convict in the Illinois State Prison, has invented an airplane propeller that may revolutionize world flying.

The most amazing part of this news is that King, whom psychologists have called the "possessor of a criminal mind," has never seen a modern airplane.

It was behind the gray, forbidding walls of Joliet Prison that King, an inmate for the past fifteen years, conceived and perfected his remarkable discovery.

With thirteen years of his sentence to serve, King has refused all monetary offers for his invention. Among the aviation interests that have communicated with King concerning his creation are the United States Navy, the Guggenheim Foundation and Henry Ford.

King, however, declares that the only price he would consider is his immediate freedom, a matter which rests in the hands of the state of Illinois.

His idea was first conceived in a dream while he was asleep in a solitary confinement cell. For five years he toiled alone over the plans. After Major Harry C. Hill became warden he was allowed use of the prison workshop to complete his model.

King's invention is a four-bladed propeller designed to utilize every possible ounce of horsepower. It gives ninety per cent efficiency

Lose Fat Safely - Quickly

Kruschen Salts—(a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have Kruschen Salts.

Take a half teaspoon every morning in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears, you'll feel better than ever before—years younger, more energetic. You'll soon possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 8c bottle (lasts 4 weeks) at any progressive drugist in America. Money back if Kruschen doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat.

compared to the forty per cent afforded by the type now in use.

The ingenuity of the discovery is only equalled by its astonishing simplicity. Each of the four blades is connected separately to a hollow central shaft. As the outer shaft revolves the blades move back and forth along the length of this central shaft.

Revolving at maximum speed, each blade will make 1,000 trips a minute. They will feather automatically in the direction of the flight and change to the proper drawing pitch at the point of greatest pull.

Though several of the American airplane manufacturers are reported to have bid extraordinary sums for the invention, King says he will never sell it. Instead he intends to give it to society when released from jail. With all possible allowances for exemplary behavior this will not be before 1938, unless he is pardoned or paroled by the governor.

OPEN POLICE DRIVE AGAINST AUTOISTS

Four autoists, cited into Municipal Court Thursday morning by police for violations of the city's traffic ordinance, were each fined the costs, $2.50, by Judge E. D. Smith as authorities opened a campaign to "put teeth" in traffic regulations. Several other motorists are cited for appearance before Judge Smith Friday morning.

Louise Allen, Dayton, S. N. McClellan and E. H. Barnes, Xenia, were each assessed the costs for parking their machines out of line and on Lawley, Xenia, was given a similar assessment for failing to observe a stop street sign at Second and Detroit Sts.

FIGURES SHOW 15.2 PER CENT GAIN FOR 1930

lation experts since the last government census, the gain, especially for a small city, is "well above the average," according to Mr. Story.

Mr. Story called attention to the fact that Springfield gained only 12.6 per cent in population, that the gain of Dayton city proper was but 7 per cent and that many cities comparable in size to Xenia, either gained only slightly or lost population since the 1920 count.

Urban's gain, according to Mr. Story, was slight. Bellefontaine's 1930 population of 9,535 represents a gain of only 109 over the 9,336 of 1920 while Washington, D. C. has a population of 8,415, representing a gain of 453 over the 1920, when the population was 7,962. Coshocton has 10,855 people and gained only thirty-eight since 1920. Delaware lost population while Ravenna showed a gain of less than 1,000.

"Your figures are very favorable and you should congratulate yourselves," said Mr. Story. "The population figures show you are a very progressive city. Few cities comparable in size made a similar gain in population, the average falling much below your figure."

The census figures also show that only 239 of Xenia's population are unemployed. The figures list this number as "persons who usually work at a gainful occupation, who are out of a job, able to work and looking for a job." This condition, representing an unemployment total of only slightly more than 2 per cent, was described by Mr. Story as "extremely healthy."

Xenia's sanguine population hopes were based on an estimate of 11,945 made by a city directory published in 1927 and an estimate of 12,147 made by the Newspaper Feature Bureau, Wheeling, W. Va., population experts, in December, 1929. Even complete returns, which may add somewhat to the total, will not bring the 1930 census up to either of these figures. It is apparent.

A large percentage of Xenia's population increase may be laid to an extension of the corporate limits in 1920, shortly after the 1920 federal census. At that time the increase in territory was estimated to have added approximately 1,000 people to the urban population. If this estimate is correct Xenia's net gain for the last decade for the same area as counted in 1920 is 388 persons.

Xenia's census figures were released late, Mr. Story explained, because of the unfortunate illness of one of the enumerators, whose indisposition delayed the count in the first ward. The count in the three other wards was finished before that and the work in the first ward was completed last week and sent to Springfield for tabulation.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

JUSTIFIED BY FAITH—A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law; for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.—Gal. 2:16.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF ADVERTISING

The enormous increase in newspaper advertising during the last few years, has resulted because the business world has discovered that such publicity appeals to the human mind. It moves people to action.

The reason for this lies deep in human consciousness. There is something in the human mind that calls for some outside stimulus before it acts. Take, for instance, the way people respond to calls on them for philanthropic causes. They may know in a general way that a certain organization or movement is a fine philanthropy. They may realize that it would be a fine and charitable act to make a contribution to that movement. But the chances are 100 to 1, that they will never give a nickel to it, unless someone calls on them and asks for a subscription.

Suppose that two public causes of equal merit should desire such contributions from the people. Suppose that one of them should depend upon the fact that the public knows all about its good work, and should make no further effort to secure funds. Meanwhile the other cause sends out solicitors from door to door; it is safe to say that the one that sends around the solicitors will get about 100 times as much as the one that depends upon general public knowledge.

This principle applies in winning patronage for a place of business. The fact may be well known that a certain store is well conducted and gives good service. But if it does not bring its service to the notice of the people in some conspicuous way, then it will make but slow progress. If it solicits trade in some conspicuous way, of which newspaper advertising is by far the most efficient, economical, and practical, then it will stir the public to action, and its trade will largely increase. In every city in the land, business firms are going on to large success by taking advantage of this principle of human nature.

IT KEEPS GETTING WORSE

Carelessness, incompetency and criminality have been responsible for the 190,850 fatal motor car accidents which have taken place in this country in the last 10 years. Because the country has failed to handle its traffic problem successfully, the number of killings is increasing steadily. Last year the death list included 31,000 names. Unless the unexpected happens, this year's list will contain many more. In almost every family group of any size, some member has either died or has been maimed on the highways.

The character of the accidents is changing also in a significant way. A report given at the recent national conference on street and highway safety said that approximately 55 per cent of motor vehicle fatalities in 1929 were deaths of pedestrians. This means that approximately 45 per cent of the victims were people riding in machines, and the newspaper accounts from week to week and month to month indicate that the greater number of such deaths occur as a result of collisions between cars. After a recent week-end, the traffic reports for Greater Detroit told of 17 deaths and serious injuries. Thirteen of the victims were motorists. The problem of making the world reasonably safe for the pedestrian and particularly for the child pedestrian is still with us. It is as acute as ever. But the problem of maintaining a world reasonably safe for motorists has risen to take a place beside it and is quite as pressing.

Both ought to be solved, and both could be solved. But we have little expectation or hope that either will be. Before they are handled in any effective way, the defect in American character which is causing most of the major troubles of the United States today must be remedied. That defect is disregard for law except when it affects the other fellow. And when we use the word "disregard" we include disregard by those sworn to enforce and uphold it, including many attorneys.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

LAUGHTER

The human body needs more laughter. Of course we have long known that the human spirit needs more laughter. But now it seems that our health demands a larger dose. Mary Ferguson, social service expert at Johns Hopkins hospital, writing in "The Family," tells us of the effect of full-grown giggles on the chemistry of the body and hence on the mind. Laughter brings about deeper breathing, exposes every cell to an increased amount of oxygen, and promotes digestion.

TRAINING CLOWNS

Speaking of laughter, one notes that Russia has a school for training clowns. Instruction is given in the art of being funny and grotesque. The school is in Moscow, and furnishes clowns, both male and female, to theatres and circuses throughout Russia. Students in the clown school pay nothing for instruction. The government pays the bill in the belief that it is a good thing to furnish folk with laughter. Incidentally, clowns can spread Russian propaganda. Though one has no interest in the spread of Russian propaganda, there may be something in this idea of teaching people to be funny enough to make us laugh.

EARNING, LEARNING, LEISURE

Earning a living is not enough in this life and to teach boys and girls how to earn a living is not enough. Parents and teachers in their Denver convention are told they ought to be seeking a "worthwhile, full and enjoyable life. The lure of the dollar has carried us on to the neglect of the importance of leisure, contemplation and conversation." If we could teach boys and girls, men and women, too, how to use their leisure, we should be able to change the amazing crime conditions in this country. Learning to earn is important—but not so important as learning to live.

DISCOURAGEMENTS

It isn't disappointment or discouragement that kills us off. It isn't hard luck, failure, bad business and the like which get us down. Nothing can really get us down but our own spirit. It is not the event itself that has power. It is our reaction to the event. So long as we keep the spirit to go on, come what will, fall though we sometimes do, we are moving somewhere. It is when the spirit falls, when we give up the aim and the purpose and the ideal, that we are through.

Where is the Natural bridge and how was it formed?

The Natural bridge is in Rockbridge county, Virginia. It was left by the collapse of the remainder of the roof of a tunnel formed by water percolating through a joint or fissure athwart the stream. The tunnel thus formed was gradually enlarged until all the water of the stream was diverted from the stream bed below the joint of the ingress, leaving a bridge. It has a span of 90 feet and is from 50 to 100 feet wide.

The Slave Trade

When was the importation of slaves into the United States stopped?

After 1808 the importation of slaves was prohibited by the constitution, but the smuggling in of the Africans continued up to the time of the Civil war.

Hall of Remembrance

What is the Hall of Remembrance?

The Hall of Remembrance of American Artists is in the Gould Memorial library of the University of New York, and contains a collection of busts of American artists, painters and sculptors. The hall is the idea of a New York artist, W. Franklyn Paris. There are 10 of 16 busts that are to be placed in the hall already in place.

The Colors

How should the word "colors" be used when referring to flags?

The term "colors" is used when speaking of a flag carried by unmounted units. A "standard" is a flag carried by mounted or motorized units. An "ensign" is a flag flown on ships and small boats.

Calendar Tinkering

How was the year divided during the French revolutionary era?

The year was divided into 12 months of 30 days each. These months were called Vendemiaire, the month of vintage; Brumaire, the month of fog; Frimaire, the month of frost; Nivose, the snowy; Pluviose, the rainy; Ventose, the windy month; Germinal, the month of flowers; Prairial, the month of meadows; Messidor, the month of reaping; Thermidor, the month of heat; Fructidor, the month of fruit. In ordinary years there were five extra days, from the 17th to the 21st of our September, and at the end of every fourth year was a sixth complementary day. This reckoning was first used on November 22, 1793, and was continued until December 31, 1805.

Origin of Coal

What was the origin of coal?

Recent researches and discoveries, particularly in Australia and the United States, have led some geologists to discard the theory that coal is the decayed or preserved remains of ancient plants and ferns. On the contrary, these geologists say, most of the coal in both the northern and southern hemispheres is what remains of pine and cedar trees that were washed down from the hills by water or were carried there by ice drifts. The only exceptions, it is asserted, are the coal beds that lie under some lakes and ponds.

NEW YORK—Twenty years ago Governor Al Smith, as a young Assemblyman, paid his first visit to the then Governor Hughes, and the newspaper men will long remember it. "Al" as a Tammany legislator, had no love for Hughes and was inclined to refer to him as "Baptist Charley." But after his visit he said to the reporter: "You can take it from me, the Governor is all there. I tell you, boys, he is one fine chap. 'Baptist Charley' is all to the good. When I left him I slapped him on the back and I says to him: 'You're a fine fellow even if you are a Republican.'"

KNEE DEEP IN JUNE

IS JIM REED TOO OLD?

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Announcement (as it is interpreted here) of ex-Senator James A. Reed's candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932 exploded in Washington, of a Sunday morning recently, with all the emphasis of one of the largest-sized political shells ever manufactured, and plunked from a 1,000-mile range gun right into the midst of the national capital.

To say that it was unexpected is not alone to express it inadequately. It is scarcely to express it in any sense whatever.

When the Missourian was turned down cold at Houston two years ago his own party bosses, and also the G. O. P. bosses, took it for granted that he was out of the White House running permanently. More, they took it for granted that he knew it—that he recognized he was discredited as well as beaten—and the last person any of them ever imagined they would hear from again was Jim Reed, except occasionally, perhaps from retirement and in a strictly private capacity.

FOR ONE THING, the ex-senator from Missouri is entirely too old to be seriously considered presidentially.

Just supposing, for the sake of argument, that he could be nominated and elected, he would be past his seventy-first birthday before the date for his inauguration, or three years beyond the age of the oldest man ever previously to take the presidential oath of office—William Henry Harrison, and he died only a month later. He would be older on inauguration day than any of his predecessors on quitting the White House.

To be sure, President von Hindenburg was verging on his 80's when elected, but Germany sets no precedents for this country.

AND YET—and yet—May there not be something to strike a popular chord here, too, in this savage old Missouriian's defiance of Father Time himself?—with his resounding trumpet call to the faithful to rally to his standard for the salvation of democratic government, as he conceives it.

The politicians had not even thought of such a thing—until the crash of the Reed shell rattled the windows of the senate and house of representatives' office buildings—and 500 or so startled lawmakers suddenly looked up, wondering, in Washington's history, the same idea occurred to quite so many politicians at one and the same instant—

"Too old? Yes, certainly. But the trimmings made a man feel like a Yale athlete. Or two Harvard athletes.

HARMONY
Harmonize, brother, harmonize. That's the slogan for men this summer. No matter if your rhythms are soured, spruce up your appearance, for men are going in for colors. The relationship between a handkerchief, a necktie and sox, is all important this season.

And do men like it? Ask the department store salesmen.

EXTREM?

The tiniest chapel in the world is in this city. It is the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, Fourth avenue and Pacific Street, Brooklyn, and seats only three persons. It has received gifts from all over the world. Fat folk are not encouraged to attend services there.

who knows he can't get away with it?"

WHAT OCCURRED at the November polls in 1928 was precisely what Reed had predicted would occur.

When he made his forecast, on the eve of the Houston convention, it was generally considered that he was speaking two words for himself, one for the Democratic party—and possibly he was; nevertheless, he proved to be a true prophet. It was not a Democratic year, anyway.

The chances would have been as hopelessly against Reed as they turned out to be against Al Smith, had Reed been nominated. That is, Reed would have certainly been beaten, though probably by a considerably smaller margin.

However, the delegates at Houston already had sensed that Reed—and possibly he was; nevertheless, he proved to be a true prophet. It was not a Democratic year, anyway.

REED, THEREFORE, was lucky in not being named at Houston. Named in 1923, and inevitably defeated, he WOULD have been ended.

He was doubly lucky at Houston if he can be named in 1932, for all indications are that he will have real prospects in that year—if it is he can get the nomination.

Maynard Reed himself realized 1928's disadvantages, but realized

Peter's Adventures
By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

NOT LIKE HIS NEIGHBOR
Hobgoblin rose to the surface of the water and swam lazily toward shore.

"Can that fellow land?" demanded Peter, who felt not a little like running away himself if it should happen the ugly creature was as much at home on land as in the water. But Brown Beetle chuckled.

"Hobgoblin is a water creature, and water creature he'll remain!" said he, calming Peter's fears. "And even if you were in the water, Hobgoblin wouldn't attack you—you are much too large. So am I, for the matter of that. Hobgoblin is something of a coward for all he looks so fierce! He attacks only folks smaller than himself, who haven't a fighting chance. I know he can't hurt me, but it is just the sight of him at which I shiver. He looks like a ghost more than like a real water insect. Look sharp, boy. You can almost see through his body as though it were a gauze wing. Ugh! You look if you want to, I can't bear to!" Brown Beetle averted his gaze. But Peter kept on staring.

"His head may be ugly, but his tail is beautiful!" cried the boy. It is as soft and fluffy as a feather fan. Wouldn't you think it would become bedraggled and limp by being wet all the while?"

"Uh huh!" agreed Brown Beetle. "Yet for some reason or other it doesn't. If you can see his tail, Hobgoblin must have turned around, in which case I don't mind looking at him again, myself. There he goes, down into the water, and I'm glad. Although I dare say what gives me pleasure is to give some water creature pain, for Hobgoblin dove in search of a meal or I don't know his habits!"

Next: "A Perfect Stick."

also the fast-increasing handicap of his age, and fought as he did at Houston, deeming it his final opportunity—only later to recuperate and resolve, handicap and all, to try again—a warrior while there is life in his body.

WHETHER OR NOT Jim Reed could survive a term in the White House, if he survives until November, 1932, he can put up a campaign that will go down in history. That will count, whatever happens afterward.

Everyone knows the Democrats' weakness—they split on the slightest occasion.

If there is a leader who can keep them united, it is Reed of Missouri. Jim fights to win. Mayhem being required, he commits mayhem. He caused considerable ill feeling thus at Houston. It lingered for awhile, but today it has about evaporated. Say what they will—north or south, no Democrat questions Reed's democracy.

The Democrats split in 1928, as usual, and were licked the worse for it. They would have been licked anyhow, but they would not have split with Reed at the head of their ticket.

In 1932 they will not necessarily be licked—if they stick together. But who can hold them together?

The leaders have looked hopelessly around every time anyone has asked this question, Jim Reed? Oh, yes. But he's too old, of course.

Like a thunderclap, in well-known tones, from far-off Missouri—

"The heck I am."

On due consideration, is he?

Answers to Mothers
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
— JEWISH PROVERB.

"DEAR DOCTOR: My question is on marking my unborn babe. I read a book which told of a mother who frequently saw a picture of a bear while she was pregnant, and her baby was born with lots of hair on his body, and claws like a bear. I keep thinking that perhaps my baby will be the same. Please tell me if this is true, as I am so worried."
"MRS. S."

This is one of several letters on the subject of "marking" babies, and my answer will do for all of them. First, I will say, stop your worrying, Mrs. S.

There is no direct nerve or blood connection between the babe in utero and the mother. All such stories of marking by gruesome and disagreeable sights, frights and scares, etc., are coincidences. If such markings were true, there never would be a baby born without a birthmark of some sort.

And just as you cannot "mark" babies for harm, you cannot mark them advantageously, either, such as by studying art or music to make the baby an artist or musician, being around beautiful things to make him beautiful, etc. What characteristics the child will have are determined at the first union of the germ cells, right from the start, by the inheritance factors that have been contributed from the mother's and father's side.

Whatever influence the mother's emotional life has on the baby is that from the nutritional standpoint. If she is upset emotionally, constantly, it is highly probable that she won't be well nourished and the baby won't be so well nourished, either. Then, if the woman who is not normally emotionally stable, schools herself to become more stable for the nine months she is carrying her baby, she may establish a habit which may be lasting, so she will be a better mother and guide her child.

better. In that way, naturally she will affect his physical and emotional life, for the better. Of course, we know that some babies do have birthmarks. Just what causes them is not known, any more than it is known what causes the deformities of plants and other animals besides man. There may be some mechanical factor, such as inflammation or growth, or some grave nutritional disturbance or accident, etc., that actually injures the uterus or the baby.

We have an article on the Diet during Pregnancy and Nursing and a list of books for mothers which contains the names of some on pre- and post-natal care, which will be of help to you, Mrs. S. (See column rules.)

Mrs. B: I think you must have my column mixed up with some other, for you are evidently not following my reducing instructions. I suggest you send for our Petersizing pamphlet that will answer your questions. Have you not been back to your physician for a complete examination after your baby was born? Only the physician who examines you can tell whether you have a rupture or not, Mrs. B.

Mrs. J.: Our pamphlet, Hygiene of Women answers your questions on the change of life.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

NEGLECTED WIFE: I looks as if your husband had gotten into bad company since he moved to the larger town. With whom is he associated in business? Think I'd find out if I were you. Possibly the fact that business is bad is what is troubling him and making him secretive and irritable.

If you can't find out the cause of the change in him from him, could you through friends of his? It doesn't seem as if his love for you could die so suddenly, so investigate thoroughly before you plan anything. When you discover the cause of the change, you can decide what had better be done.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Please do advise me. I am a married woman of 21. Last year I married. I was advised not to but did anyway. As a child I had everything I wanted. I lived in a big house, rode in a Lincoln car and had as many dresses as I wished for.

"When I married I knew my husband could not support me so I started to work. I worked until I became sick. Last month I had a daughter. Ever since then he has treated me brutally. He gives me no money and my daughter has grown too big for her first clothes. I am still too weak to work, and I am terribly afraid that my husband will break my daughter's leg or arm.

"I would go to my father but he lost everything in the stock market and my mother died two weeks ago, so I am afraid he could not keep me. My husband drinks and beats the child and me. Please, Virginia, tell me what to do.

"MISTREATED MARGE."

I would go to the Humane Society and see if they can't induce your husband to do better and to keep from beating you and the little baby I would also appeal to my father, if I were you. He certainly would not allow his daughter to be mistreated, even if he has lost his money. Maybe he could help you until you are stronger and can make some plan to have the baby cared for while you work, or until some settlement has been made whereby your husband supports you and the baby, as he should.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a girl of 15 and have been going out with boys for over a year, although my mother does not know it. The boys are nice and mean no harm, but please tell me should I tell my mother or shall I let her find it out herself?"

"I have asked her if I could go with boys and she says yes, if she goes with me. Of course no boy wants to take his girl friend's mother along. Virginia, please pretend you are my mother and give me some advice."
BLUE EYED SUE

All right, dear, I'll pretend you are my little girl, and I would much rather you trust me and tell me what you have been doing. You would feel better about it and so would I. And, as your mother, I would not mind you going with boys as long as I knew all about it, knew the boys and where you were going, but I certainly wouldn't want to go along. Nothing would bore me more than to be third party when you and your boy friend stepped out. I am sure I could trust you to do nothing that was wrong. Your mother was probably joking when she said she would go with you.

How To Achieve Beauty

By GLAYS GLAD

FLAWLESSNESS in grooming is one of the most important requisites of beauty. For your clothes and your makeup are the background against which you display your personal charms.

You probably have had the experience of meeting some woman with a reputation for charm and popularity, and you have found fault with the shape of her forehead, with the length of her nose, with the curve of her lips.

And you may or may not have concluded that much of her reputation for beauty came through perfect grooming. At least, that is what such an experience should have taught you.

Too often "good taste" is interpreted to mean plainness. This is not necessarily true. Some women can use a great deal of makeup, wear weird styles and extreme colors, and affect the most violent coiffures. And yet, because artistry and care are employed, they present a most charming appearance.

Perfect grooming means care of the simplest details of your makeup and of your grooming. The woman who does not keep her figure within bounds can never be "perfectly groomed." The woman who does not study her complexion problems, meet them day by day, and hour by hour, can never be "perfectly groomed."

The woman who hangs her clothes carelessly, who neglects to keep her dresser drawers neat, so that her underthings are not wrinkled, can never be "perfectly groomed."

The woman who uses a pin where there should be a hook and eye, or allows her heels to become "run over," is hopeless as far as "perfection in grooming" is concerned.

In some cases, vanity is an excellent asset. For true vanity would not permit carelessness in any detail of attire or body care.

The pitiful showing being made by the Cincinnati Reds in the National League this season is equalled only by that of the St. Louis Browns in the American League.

Manager Dan Howley, of the Reds, formerly managed the Browns and thinks that Cincinnati and St. Louis are anything but last-place clubs.

He has a keen interest in the Browns and believes they and the Reds will yet make the other clubs sit up and take notice.

The motto of the fans at St. Louis, it is said, is "stay away from the ball park." Cincinnati fans, however, do not give up so easily and whether the Reds are winning or losing, continue to flock to Red and Field in great numbers, never losing faith.

Now that Grover-Cleveland Alexander has been given his unconditional release by the Phillies, Eppa Rixey, of the Cincinnati Reds, has inherited from him the distinction of being the dean of National League pitchers. Rixey still continues to win ball games once in a while despite the fact he has been on the major league firing line since 1912, except for 1918 when he was with the A. E. F. Eppa should be retired on pension one of these years.

Two softball teams in the National League have been strengthened by the addition of new players who were not available to play until this month. John Gibney, on the eligibility list of the Lang Chevrolet Co., is home from Cleveland, where he attended the University School and played baseball this spring, and will break in to the lineup as an infielder or pitcher, probably both. Bob Morton, home for his summer vacation from Ohio Wesleyan, is now available to the Downtown Country Club and played his first game last Monday against Carroll-Blinder, getting two hits and fielding well. The two players should considerably reinforce the lineups of their teams during the rest of the summer.

Instead of playing double-headers each game limited to seven innings in the National and American Softball Leagues which have postponed games, are expected to play off these contests during the period that Company L, local National Guard unit, is encamped at Camp Perry, O., this summer for a thirty day period. The postponements will probably be played off on the days the Company L softball team is scheduled to play American League games.

MERCHANTS TO PLAY COLORED TEAM HERE

The Lincoln Cubs, a colored team, considered one of the strongest semi-pro road outfits in Dayton, will furnish the opposition for the Xenia Merchants in the weekly Sunday matinee on the Washington Park diamond, according to an announcement made Thursday by Manager Jesse Chambliss.

The Dayton nine was originally organized to play home games but has developed into an exclusively road team.

The Merchants have been enjoying a highly successful season to date, having dropped only one game, and hope to maintain their winning ways.

Ankeny will probably pitch for the Merchants.

BRAKEMAN HURT IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Charles A. Montgomery, 622 N. Galloway St., Pennsylvania Railroad brakeman, was treated at the office of Dr. W. A. Galloway, Pennsylvania railway surgeon, for scalp injuries and a bruised right shoulder suffered late Wednesday afternoon when he was attempting to detach the cabin from a work train on which he was acting as extra conductor. His foot slipped and in falling his head struck a rail, cutting three or four gashes in the scalp and bruising one shoulder. The accident occurred in the Pennsylvania yards a square east of the station. Dr. Galloway was summoned and after dressing Montgomery's injuries took him to his office where he re-dressed the wounds.

CALVERT RETURNED TO FAYETTE COUNTY

Howard Calvert, 26, apprehended by county authorities as he was leaving Bowersville Tuesday morning after disposing of eight stolen chickens at a village grocery, was turned over to the sheriff of Fayette County for prosecution on chicken stealing charges.

Following his arrest, Calvert is said to have confessed to having stolen twenty-six chickens at different times at Pleasant View, Fayette County, where he has been making his home with his grandmother.

Calvert was turned over to Fayette County authorities for prosecution on the advice of Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall.

LANGS DEFEATED BY DAYTON TEAM HERE IN OVERTIME GAME

Pitcher Wins Own Game With Triple In Tenth Frame

Quartell pitched and batted the Jim Kelly softball team of Dayton, leader of the Recreation League in the Gem City, to a 7 to 6 victory over the Lang Chevrolet Co. nine, co-leader of the Xenia National League, in a ten-inning, inter-city exhibition game, staged before a large crowd Wednesday night on the Washington Park diamond.

Bobby Colburn, former Dayton Stivers basketball star, who had hurled the Jim Kellys to a 7 to 1 victory over Langs at Dayton a few weeks ago, was slated to pitch but Quartell was on the mound instead and it was Quartell who led off with a triple, his first hit of the game, in the first half of the tenth round and scored the winning run a moment later on a single by his batter mate, Heller.

Quartell was reached for sixteen safe hits but was airtight with runners on base and Langs had eleven runners stranded on the sacks. Hurley, pitching for Langs, limited the visitors to only ten hits but the Dayton nine exercised better judgment when it came to converting its bingles into runs.

Langs went scoreless for the first five innings during which the Kellys nine assumed a 4 to 0 lead. Heller's home run with the bases empty gave the Jim Kellys a run in the second and in the third the visitors tallied three runs on an error, a base on balls and a circuit blow by Hawks that cleared the bases.

Cain's single, an error and a double by McCoy broke the scoring ice for Langs in the sixth. Dayton scored again in the seventh on an error and a hit by Hunter but Langs came back in their half of the lucky seventh to score three, reducing the lead of the Kellys to one run. Buell, replacing Shaw in right field, singled. D. Fuller was safe on a fielder's choice and the following two batters by Gibney and L. Fuller.

In the eighth McMeekin doubled, stole third and scored on Shafar's sacrifice bunt to center field, but in the last of the eighth Langs, after their long uphill battle, at last tied up the count when with two down, Buell tripled and D. Fuller smacked a home run. Neither team was able to score in the ninth and in the tenth the Kellys won out. In the last of the tenth with one down Joe Smittle, the home run merchant of the Lang nine, arrived at the park in time to bat for Buell but struck out. D. Fuller singled but was thrown out at second trying to stretch his hit into a double and the game was over.

L. Fuller, Lang center fielder, roamed all over the park snaring fly balls and had no less than ten putouts, which should be a record or something. D. Fuller, his brother, hit two singles, a triple and a homer.

Langs will face the Clinton Supply Co. team of Wilmington in an inter-city game Friday night on the Washington Park diamond. This team is considered the best in Wilmington. Rain prevented a meeting between the two teams earlier in the season at Wilmington. Box score:

SENTENCE XENIAN FOR GRAND LARCENY

One year in Ohio State Penitentiary was the sentence meted out by Judge L. G. Worstell in Common Pleas Court at Athens, O., Wednesday to Gabriel Lydie, 39, Xenia, who entered a guilty plea to a charge of grand larceny on which he was indicted by the Athens grand jury recently.

Lydie was the sixth and last member of a band of wino thieves to be apprehended. Three other Xenia youths have been sentenced and another is awaiting trial at Athens.

Lydie, apprehended at Dayton for Xenia police and turned over to Athens authorities for prosecution last week, admitted being a member of a gang which raided mines and industrial plants in the Nelsonville, O., district. Those sentenced previously were Harry and William Green, brothers, and John Dunbar. Elmer Sharp, having pleaded not guilty, is awaiting hearing of his case in court, while the case of John Halterman, Xenia, has not been disposed of.

LESSON ELEVEN

The use of the springboard requires good timing.

Few people know the real principle of a diving board. It is to push down on the board and it in turn will throw you.

You must pull yourself together in the air, turn head downward, straighten out, balance yourself and enter the water with very little splash.

Stand on the end of the board and take a little jump, coming down first on the ball of your foot and then the heel. As you take your spring pull your arms and shoulders up with great force so as to give you a good lift from the board.

Try taking one spring after another in good time and form. This should be practiced for a few moments every time you go on a board to dive.

Perfection in diving depends upon the perfect balance of the body. The diver must enter the water in a straight line; head, body legs and feet should successively plunge at the exact point where his hands impinged the surface.

SHOEMAKERS DEFEAT CADDIES TO TIGHTEN FIRST PLACE HOLD

Krippendorf-Dittman Shoe Co. softball team has a strange hold on first place in the American League by virtue of its decisive 15 to 1 victory over the Country Club Caddies Wednesday night at Cox Athletic Field.

Atoning for the only defeat it has sustained during the revised league season, Krippendorf made amends with vengeance.

While Perrine was pitching in invincible fashion, limiting the Caddies to seven scattered hits, Krippendorf pounced upon the offerings of Smith for seventeen hits and scored an impressive victory which strengthened its clutch on the league leadership.

The Caddies averted a shutout by scoring one run in the second inning as a result of a double by Short, followed by R. Bickling's single.

With every member of the Krippendorf team save one player hitting safely, Luttrell, second baseman, led the bombardment with four hits, all singles. Jenkins and Green each made three hits and Wakley contributed the only four-base blow of the game, the homer coming in the ninth with the sacks unoccupied. Short made three of the seven hits obtained by the Caddies.

The setback dropped the Caddies to third place, below Kiwanis-Rotary in the league standing. Geysers and Carroll-Blinder will meet Thursday night in a National League game. Lineups:

CLUB PICNIC OPENS NEW CAMPING SITE WITH 520 PRESENT

Five hundred and twenty Greene County people enjoyed the first official dedication of the 4-H Club Camp near Clifton Wednesday, June 18.

Four-H Club boys and girls from each township and every project in the county, together with their parents and friends, were in attendance.

Picnic dinner was served at noon in the new dining hall that has just been completed. Games and stunts were enjoyed by adults as well as the boys and girls. Appreciation of the natural scenery that is present in this county was increased in the minds of those present by roaming over the cliffs.

The club camp fund was increased by selling ice cream, candy and drinks.

District camp on July 7-11 is the first camp to be held at this camp site. July 15-18 are the dates of the Madison-Clinton, and Greene Tri-County Women's Camp. Greene County Four-H Club Camp will be August 18-22.

Camp spirit in Greene County for Four-H Clubs and also Woman's Camp is pronounced, judging from the enthusiasm and pep shown at this picnic.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW DECISION IN CRIMINAL CASE

Decision of the Ohio Supreme Court to review the case of the state on an appeal from a decree of the Greene County appellate court granting a second trial to Forest Nooks, colored, and Samuel Wallace, was announced Thursday.

An appeal had been filed by the state seeking reversal of the decision of the appellate court which reversed the action of Common Pleas Court in sentencing Nooks and Wallace to terms of one to seven years each in Ohio Penitentiary after they were jointly tried and convicted of grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of forty chickens from Leonard Platter, Osborn farmer, the night of September 8, 1929.

The appellate court ordered the case re-tried because of the refusal of the trial court to permit the introduction of defense testimony intended not to prove an alibi but to discredit and impeach the evidence of the principal state's witness.

grocer's hint
and gets whiter washes easily

"I'm so grateful to my grocer for getting me to try Rinsol," says Mrs. Hill. "How easy washday is now... why all I do is soak and rinse! That saves mending, let me tell you! My clothes last much longer now. Rinsol is just grand in our hard water; it gives such thick, soapy, lasting suds."

For dishwashing, too Rinsol is the only soap you need—for the wash, for the dishes, for all cleaning. So economical; cup for cup it gives twice as much suds as light, puffed-up soaps. And no softener needed, even in hardest water.

Wonderful in washers; the makers of 38 leading washers endorse Rinsol. Safe for finest linens. Get the BIG package.

Stages Comeback to Clear Name In Murder of Thirty Years Ago

Sixty-Year-Old Rice Murder Defendant
Seeks Right to Practice Law.

STATE DETECTIVE and A.T. PATRICK 28 YEARS AGO

ALBANY, N. Y., June 18.—The axiom that "they never come back" has just been knocked into a cocked hat by Albert T. Patrick, 60, whom the state of New York condemned to die for murder twenty-eight years ago.

Not satisfied with having been saved from the electric chair by a governor's pardon as he awaited execution in the Sing Sing death house; with later being pardoned and still later being permitted to practice law in the Federal Courts of Texas and Oklahoma, Patrick today is asking the right to appear in the United States Supreme Court from which he is still barred.

Because of the extraordinary circumstances of his case, Patrick is being permitted to examine the records of his first degree murder conviction in Governor Roosevelt's office.

The crime for which Patrick was sent to the death house created a sensation in its day and his successful ten year battle for liberation interested experts all over the world.

Patrick, a brilliant lawyer, was first placed on trial in 1902 for having instigated the murder of William Marsh Rice, multi-millionaire of New York and Texas and founder of the Rice Institute. The state, at that time, alleged that Patrick had suggested to Charles F. Jones, Rice's valet, that it would be easy to kill the elderly financier with chloroform. Largely through the testimony of Jones, turned State's evidence, Patrick was convicted for first degree murder and sentenced to die. Five days later he was married to Mrs. Addie M. Frances, in Tombs prison.

From his prison cell the lawyer directed efforts to have his sentence commuted. Late in the afternoon of Dec. 20, 1906, the day set for his execution, papers prepared in the room where Patrick was now working, were signed by Governor Frank Higgins, saving Patrick's life.

Six years later Governor John A. Dix, now dead, granted the imprisoned attorney an unconditional pardon. Since then the indefatigable lawyer has won for himself the right to practice in two states. Patrick has been so successful in his professional work since that many of his important cases are carried to the highest tribunal in the land.

Freely talking with reporters at the State capitol here, Patrick reminisced about his 28-year-old conviction and pointed out that Rice, then eighty-three, had eaten nine bananas the night before he died. This could easily have caused the old man's death, Patrick said.

CHAUTAUQUA GUARANTORS WILL MEET; THREE PLAYS ON PROGRAM

With the arrival of the advance agent for the Redpath Chautauqua which opens here Monday, June 23, Chautauqua guarantors are called to meet at City Hall Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The week's program will open Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wells in a music and drama program, the only two-person company on any chautauqua program to present a complete three-act play.

The comedy hit, "The Big Pond," will be presented Monday night, the first of three plays that are on this year's program. The second, "The Mollusc," is another witty comedy which ran two seasons on Broadway, and will be given the third chautauqua night. Phyllis McCoy, who has been playing leads in Chicago productions for several seasons, will have the title role.

On the fifth night Redpath will present the mystery play, "The Perfect Alibi," by A. A. Milne, a mystery drama that equals in thrills and suspense "The Bat" and "The Canary Murder Case." Featured among the musical programs provided is the Russian Cossack Chorus on the fourth night, a company organized in 1921 and made up of some of Russia's finest musicians. This group has been enthusiastically received. The chorus will be heard both in the afternoon and evening.

The Artists' Day will bring Hugo Brandt, pianist, Paul Clark, violinist and La Vonne Field, soloist and crayon artist. The closing night will feature Vierra's Hawaiians in "A Night in Honolulu." The headline speaker of the program will be Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, an important figure in the U. S. senate, who will speak on the economic situation on the second day. Judge Ben Alden will address the audience on the fifth afternoon on "Altitudes and Visibilities."

"Crime and Criminals" by Judge Frank C. Travis will be given the afternoon of the third day, his talk analyzing the causes of the present crime situation. Junior Town for the children will be in session every morning at 9 o'clock, culminating in a pageant, "In Radio Land," on the afternoon of the last day.

Chautauqua backers are pointing out that single admissions for the three plays to be offered during the week would exceed the price of a season ticket. Adult season tickets are now on sale for $2.50 and tickets for children are available at $1.25. Guarantors are urging patrons to buy season tickets now.

Tunney Enjoys Fight

Star Gazing

By RADIE HARRIS

By Central Press

Is real in a land of make-believe.

Was included in the birth columns of Mount Vernon, N. Y., Nov. 29, 1904. Christened Catherine Townsend Johnson. Always called "Kay" (prefaced by O.)

Acted as far back as she can remember, but never dreamed (out loud) she would ACTUALLY be on stage some day. Knew it would be considered a blot on the family escutcheon. Knew also that accidents sometimes happen in the Best of Families.

Left Grew Seminary in her Junior year and enrolled in Academy of Dramatic Arts. Was told she was too athletic to be aesthetic. The Academy was wrong, but fifty million critics weren't when she made her first professional appearance in "Beggar on Horseback." Played opposite Roland Young, now included in the supporting cast of her next picture.

Modest About Beauty

Always harbored a secret desire to go on the screen, but never considered herself pretty enough. Was on the stage in Los Angeles when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gave her a five-year contract to play the leading role in "Dynamite." Still doesn't consider herself pretty enough.

Is sure she should have been a great pianist. Has never taken a lesson but plays by ear. Has played the same ten pieces for years. Vows weekly to practice and study two hours a day. Her intentions are "strictly honorable."

Worships her mother and considers her finest person on earth. Has never sung "Mammy." Can't discipline animals. Ruins every dog she has ever had with baby talk. Runs, does not walk, to the nearest exit if she ever hears anyone else pulling a "Helen Kane" in her vicinity.

* Would rather have ham and eggs for breakfast on a diner than an eight course dinner at iPerre's. And asparagus Hollandaise for luncheon than the entire Ritz cuisine.

Sportswoman

Is an adept of every outdoor sport. Possesses that rare combination of being an athletic type who also belongs in a drawing room.

Is married to John Cromwell. Considers him a brilliant director, fine actor and the most honest man in the world. Also the nicest—even before breakfast.

Hasn't the least idea of the value of dollars. But stands at the head of her class with her "cents of humor."

Lives in a Spanish bungalow in Beverly Hills. Would like an early American home but can't bear the thought of moving. Hopes to live abroad eventually.

Hates red nails, affected people, off stage dramatics and bad actors.

Is one of the best dressed women in Hollywood. Doesn't cost her $250,000 a year, either!

Would rather play bridge than eat. Finds it much cheaper to eat.

Enthusiasm

Gets tremendous kick out of her fan mail. Was so excited at the first request for her autograph at the opening of "Dynamite" signed album, "With love and kisses from Kay."

Is a fatalist. Believes implicitly in a guiding star. Hers is M-G-M.

Height of her ambition would be fulfilled if she could play in a

Laurel and Hardy comedy.

Her father designed the Woolworth Building. Which explains her

5 feet, 7 inches.

Nash owners prefer Sohio 4% to 1 over any other gasoline!

FROM door to door went a small army of investigators, recently, asking motor car owners in all sections of Ohio this question: "What gasoline do you use?"

Of the 93,694 motorists interviewed 3,601 drove Nash cars. And the final score left no doubt about which gasoline is first choice of Nash owners in Ohio... 807 for Sohio Ethyl... 164 for the next most popular brand... total votes for 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th choices combined falling short of Sohio's total.

This survey was conducted by R. L. Polk & Company, an organization having no connection with any gasoline producer or distributor. Here's the Nash score card:

Statewide Gasoline Survey — Nash Owners in Ohio

Number of Nash Owners Interviewed—3,601—Number Stating Brand Preference—2,632—Where Interviewed—Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron, Canton, Youngstown, Lima, Toledo, Portsmouth, Zanesville.

There Must Be A Difference In Sohio Ethyl

To win such overwhelming popularity Sohio Ethyl must have demonstrated that it is no ordinary motor fuel. Certainly it has! Even without Ethyl, Sohio would be an outstanding gasoline. With Ethyl it becomes the ideal anti-knock fuel for which modern motors are designed. Try it in your car. Fill up at the Red-White-and-Blue Sohio sign anywhere in Ohio.

SCOUTS HONOR DR. GALLOWAY BY AWARDING HIM SERVICE BADGE

In recognition of his many years of service in the interest of the Boy Scout movement, Dr. W. A. Galloway, prominent Xenia physician, was awarded a fifteen-year service badge Wednesday evening, the presentation being made by Dr. Austin M. Patterson, chairman of the Xenia District Boy Scout committee at a Boy Scout community campfire assembly held near the Scout cabin north of Cox Athletic Field.

The award came as a complete surprise to Dr. Galloway as well as many of his friends in Scouting. A similar insignia would have been presented to the late Robert H. Kingsbury, who had also been actively identified with Scouting for more than fifteen years.

Lynas Skeneandore, an Oneidan Indian from Haskell Institute, one of the members of the Camp Miami staff at Yellow Springs, was an honor guest at the campfire, and revealed part of the history of his scattered tribe and also related some of the traditions of the Tecumseh Council's summer Boy Scout camp.

Chief Scout Executive H. O. Fortz, Springfield, also gave a short inspirational talk and expressed himself as being well pleased with the prospects for Camp Miami, which opens next Monday and continues until August 4.

Presentation of a colored and framed portrait of the late Scoutmaster Kingsbury was made by George Wheeler, local photographer, to the Boy Scouts organization. The picture will be hung in the Scout cabin. Dr. Patterson made the presentation of another favorite likeness of the late Scout leader, who was beloved by the boys of the city.

Dr. Galloway presented the Xenia Scouts with a framed hand-printed chart of Lincoln's Gettysburg address and this will also be placed in a prominent place in the Scout cabin soon. The physician told briefly of the incidents before and after the Gettysburg speech delivered by the martyred president.

Contests were played and an interesting Indian campfire dance was enjoyed by the nearly seventy local Scouts who attended the assembly.

Preparations for the meeting were made by Homer T. Gratz, of Xenia, field executive of Tecumseh Council, and Fred Lang, Xenia troop committeeman.

was estimated at more than $50,000.

The fire is believed to have started in the offices of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. and spread to two adjoining buildings.

Fire companies were called from Athens, Nelsonville and Murray City to aid the Glaston fire department in combatting the blaze.

Two firemen were slightly injured in accidents. Lawrence Parker of the Athens department was injured about the back and legs when he fell fifteen feet from a ladder. John Carford, of Glaston, was cut on the left leg and foot by broken glass.

WHOLESALE PRICES DECREASE IN MONTH SURVEY INDICATES

WASHINGTON, June 19.—A pronounced drop in the general level of wholesale prices from April to May, amounting to 3 1/2 per cent, was shown today in information which was collected in leading markets of the country by the bureau of labor statistics. Compared with May a year ago, a decrease of 7 per cent is shown.

Based on these figures, the purchasing power of the 1926 dollar was $1.044 in May, 1929, and $1.22 in May last.

Farm products as a whole decreased nearly 3 per cent in average price from April to May, due to declines in grains, beef, steers, sheep, poultry, eggs, flaxseed, potatoes and wool. Alfalfa and timothy hay, lemons, onions, and oranges, on the other hand, were somewhat higher than in April. Prices for the month averaged 9 per cent below those of May a year ago.

Foods declined 2 1/2 per cent from the April level, with decreases for butter, coffee, flour, cornmeal and sugar. For this group, also, prices were appreciably lower than in the corresponding month of 1929.

Prices of hides and leather products were practically unchanged from those of the month before, with hides and skins slightly higher and leather slightly lower. Shoes and other leather goods showed little change.

Textile products were slightly downward, with cotton goods, silk and rayon, woolen and worsted goods, and other textile products all participating in the decline.

Fuel and lighting materials showed only a minor change, decreases in anthracite coal being offset by increases in gasoline and other petroleum products.

Metals and metal products averaged somewhat lower, with minor decreases shown for iron and steel and decided decreases for nonferrous metals, including copper, silver, tin and zinc.

Building materials also averaged lower than in April, lumber, brick, paint materials and others sharing in the price decline.

Chemicals and drugs, including fertilizer materials and mixed fertilizers were lower than in April, while house furnishing goods showed no change.

Paper and pulp and rubber also showed declines.

Comparing prices with those of a year ago, as measured by changes in the index numbers, decreases have taken place in all major groups of commodities, such decreases ranging from one-half of 1 per cent in the per cent in the case of textile products.

OHIO BANK ROBBED OF $3,000 BY PAIR

CELINA, O., June 19.—Police throughout western Ohio today were searching for a crippled bank bandit and a companion who late yesterday held up and robbed the First National Bank of Rockford, near here, and escaped with $3,000. O. L. Discher, cashier, and a customers were the only persons in the bank when the gunmen entered. They were forced to lie on the floor while the robbers scooped up all the loose bills in the tellers' cages. No effort was made to open the vault. The bandits escaped in an automobile which they had parked near the bank.

A WORD TO THE WISE!

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOAST-ED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*In the U. S. Public Health Reports of 1923, Volume 38, Page 1271, we find the following: "Among short men less than 5 feet 7 inches in height an excess (in weight) of 20% involves an added mortality of 30% above normal. A 40% excess adds 80% to the mortality." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

ALGO D. HENDERSON IS NAMED DEAN OF ANTIOCH COLLEGE

Algo D. Henderson has been appointed as the new dean of Antioch College, according to a recent announcement by the administration.

Mr. Henderson has served the college since 1925, first in the capacity of professor of business administration and later as business manager. His appointment fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Dr. O. L. Inman, now dean of the college, who is to take charge of a new research project in biology which, it was announced Saturday, is to be established at Antioch through the generosity of C. E. Kettering of Dayton.

Mr. Henderson is a native of Kansas and a graduate of the University of Kansas Law School, as well as of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He has also done graduate work at the University of Chicago. A member of the Kansas bar, a certified public accountant, second lieutenant in the U. S. Army during the late war, formerly assistant professor of accounting at the University of Kansas, he brings to his new position a background of widely diversified training and experience.

J. L. WHITTINGTON CLAIMED BY DEATH THURSDAY MORNING

Heart trouble and complications caused the death of Jacob Lewis Whittington, 77, who passed away at 1:45 o'clock Thursday morning at his home just off the Hoop Road. He had been ailing since a year ago last February and his condition had been serious for the last two weeks.

Mr. Whittington was born November 11, 1852 in Virginia and had lived in the vicinity where he died for the last fifty-one years.

Over since his marriage to Miss Margaret Cullice, which occurred on December 26, 1878.

Surviving is his widow, four children, Harry D. Whittington, of the White Chapel neighborhood, Earl L. of the Hoop Road; Made J. Xenia, and Loren, near Xenia; two brothers, John, of Darke County, and Edward, Martinsburg Va.; a sister Mrs. Eliza Hickman, Dayton; sixteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Two other sons are dead.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the White Chapel Church, the funeral party first meeting at the home at 1:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

Oh Boy! What Joy LIFT CORNS RIGHT OUT

The English Way

Right from England comes the new, better, joyful way to take out corns—root and all.

Callouses go also and you can rub off that hard skin on heels and toes with your hand—the magic treatment.

Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any leading druggist for a package of Radox—put 2 tablespoonfuls in a gallon of hot water—do this for 3 or 4 nights in succession—then lift out the corns.

This joyful exhilarating foot bath is simply great—you'll enjoy every minute of it and your burning, sore, tired, aching feet will feel better than they have for years—ask for Radox and foot comfort will be yours. Adv.

FUTURE FARMERS MEET

The "Future Farmers" Club met at Shawnee Park, Monday afternoon for the regular weekly meeting.

Following the brief business session Harper Bickett gave a short discussion on chickens. During the recreational period members adjourned to Cox Athletic Field and enjoyed games and stunts.

The next meeting will be held at the Park, Tuesday, July 1.

DEATH CLAIMS A. V. FOLAND WEDNESDAY

A. V. Foland, 80, prominent retired farmer of near New Burlington, died at his home at 3:45 Wednesday afternoon of a complication of ailments following an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Foland lived for more than fifty years on his farm half a mile from New Burlington on the Wilmington-Guernseyville Pike.

His wife, who was before marriage Miss Martha J. Compton preceded him in death six years ago.

Mr. Foland is survived by a bro-

A lovely, clear skin is within your reach

may be found in every good drug store in America. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. Sold in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

What a Dollar Does for You Follow it over an A & P counter 83½ cents go wherever the best food is to be found at least cost to you—in your own neighborhood, in other parts of the country, or in foreign lands . . . Every cent of this part of your dollar is on the job for you every day. It comes back to you as food—the kind you prefer.

14 cents stay at home—for your landlords, salary and wage earners who live among you, your tax collectors and community activities, your light, heat, power, and water companies; your newspapers for advertising that tells you special bargain news.

97½ cents, the sum of these items, keeps an A & P store going, doing its full share in your community's business life.

2½ cents, slightly more than the cost of a postage stamp, is the only charge you pay A & P for all this service.

DAD'S GIRL EDNA ROBB WEBSTER THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO DESERVED TO WIN

READ THIS FIRST: Clara Dee Forester is the pampered, motherless daughter of a millionaire, who is so disgusted with the wealthy young that he leaves his daughter one dollar at his death, hoping that some quality in her will make her a successful woman. She goes to Mrs. Flynn's boarding house to live, and there meets Winfield Baxter, a young chemist. Also Estelle Kay, who persuades her to model for the famous artist, Ivan Moreau. Both men fall in love with her. Estelle becomes jealous of Ivan and leaves the city with a mysterious threat. Clara Dee is invited to the studio for her New Year's Eve, but Estelle comes first to see Ivan, begs him to marry her, and is sent away angry.

Clara Dee arrives and tries to evade his attentions, while Estelle goes to Winfield and tells him where Clara Dee is. Bitterly grieved, he moves away from Mrs. Flynn's that same evening. Estelle regrets her rashness, and leaves a note that Winfield will never see. Clara Dee tries to escape from Ivan, who has been drinking. She manages to get a revolver and commands him to open the door—when she finds it already unlocked, stumbles and falls down the stairs, hearing vaguely the sounds of a shot and a shrill scream.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

John Gregory stopped his car before the old building in the Artists' Colony, in which Ivan Moreau maintained his studio. Climbing out, he glanced up at the lighted windows with satisfaction, opened the heavy outer door and entered.

At the landing, in the dimly lighted lower hall, he came upon that which for a moment froze the blood in his veins—a girl's body crumpled in a heap, face downward, her clothes almost torn from her.

With a horrified gasp that was almost a groan, and before his reason had warned him of the folly of touching the disheveled form, he had turned it over—and went white with horror. Clara Dee!—bruised, wilted, torn, the glossy black hair in damp, tangled strings over her face—but alive!

Having assured himself of that fact he glanced carefully about him to make sure that there was no one to witness, and that there was nothing lying about to betray their presence there, took off his coat and wrapped it about the girl's all-male body, pulled his hat low over his eyes and carried his burden quickly out to his car.

Now what to do? If he only knew something of what had transpired before his finding her at the bottom of the stairs leading to Moreau's studio! He could guess something concerning that. But where was Moreau now? He half-wished that he had gone on up to investigate. But his only thought had been to get Clara Dee away before someone else discovered her there.

Should he take her to his home? He considered that for a moment, but decided against it. Perhaps best to take her to Mrs. Flynn's and enlist her sympathy and aid. He must find out at once how much the girl was injured.

He was glad that she was still unconscious when he reached the lodging house. Mrs. Flynn's face had not lost its puzzled expression over the evening's strange events just past, when she opened the door in response to Gregory's ring and found him standing there, holding and carrying Clara Dee's limp body wrapped in his great coat. She flung up her arms as if he had leveled a gun at her, and her eyes grew wildly round.

"The saints preserve us, and what next will this night bring to me!" but without another word, she closed the door after him and led the way to Clara Dee's room, where Gregory laid his burden on the bed and gently extracted it from the folds of his coat.

"Don't ask me what happened, Mrs. Flynn. I don't know. But I found her like this and brought her right here. Get her undressed and in bed and I'll get a doctor here as quick as I can. And may I depend upon your absolute silence?" His eyes commanded hers with grave authority and he shoved a yellow banknote toward her. The second of its kind which Mrs. Flynn had been offered that evening! Was the world, indeed, coming to its end?

She folded her hands, raised her chin proudly and something like a snarl preceded her words: "Shore, and ye kin depend upon me silence. And begorra, neither will ye need 't be buyin' it. I kape your money and depend on it I'll be doin' all 't kin fer her. Poor child!" and she bent over the inert body and with her large, coarse hand pushed back the dank hair from the childish forehead.

Gregory was satisfied, and hurried away, dispatched to the lodging house the best doctor he could find; then called Moreau's studio on the phone. After an interminable wait, while the ringing code buzzed in his ear and the ominous silence continued at the other end of the line, he decided that it would be wise to await developments and to make no further investigations that night.

Mrs. Flynn bustled about, shaking her head and sighing audible comments. She removed Clara Dee's torn garments, the costly pearls, whose value she little guessed, bathed her pale face and cold, limp hands, drew on her pajamas.

The girl stirred and sighed, opened her eyes, looked wildly about her; and when she discovered Mrs. Flynn's kindly, anxious face above her, burst into violent sobbing.

"That, that, hush, child ye'll be all right in a minute that ye will," the woman comforted her. "Tell me, child, whatever happened to ye?"

"I don't know—just what—did happen," moaned Clara Dee between shuddering sobs.

"Well, never ye mind now. That now, quiet yerself and I'll make ye a cup o' tea. That'll be after fixin' ye."

Then, as the bell summoned from below, she bustled down to admit the doctor, again heavily ascending the stairs before him.

He entered the room and glanced about appraisingly, noted the torn garments on the chair, set down his black bag and approached the bed where Clara Dee lay with closed eyes—wan, exhausted.

She opened her eyes, startled at his touch, wildly sought Mrs. Flynn's protection.

"Ye must have been hurt, child. Ye was found and brought here in a faint, all torn and dirty. Maybe an accident, doctor. Will ye be after seein' if she's hurt bad?"

"Do you know the person who brought her?"

"That you should have held him here and reported the affair to the police."

"Shore and me niver thought of that, doctor. I was that anxious over the girl, that I lost me senses, I'm thinkin'."

"Well, nothing can be done about it now, but I'm hoping that nothing serious is wrong."

With skillful fingers he examined her for broken bones, bruises, rubbed his hands together with satisfaction.

"No bones broken, no serious sprain that is now apparent. Ugly bruises, I'll give you a prescription for those, give her something warm to drink, a few nights' rest, and she'll be all right." He was gauntly tall, bald and peered through thick-lensed, dark-rimmed eyeglasses. But his voice was generously kind, solicitous. "Too bad you didn't turn that fellow over to the police. There's something wrong somewhere. If no more than he knocked her down in the street. Can't you remember what happened to you?" to Clara Dee. But she turned her head to and fro on the pillow and with a little moan, closed her eyes. To Mrs. Flynn, "Call me again if she doesn't come along all right."

Clara Dee awoke on the first day of the new year, to find pale sunlight streaming through the cold air of the room, as if the air were so cold that it awakened the very rays of the sun. With consciousness came the memory of last night's appalling events, crowding her mind, tearing her with alternating doubts and fears. How had she come to awake at Mrs. Flynn's? Who had brought her? What had happened?

Carefully, she reviewed each word and gesture of that grotesque fight with Ivan, the very memory of which made her shudder, grow faint. But the last thing she could recall was stumbling through the door which had not resisted her weight against it—as she had expected a locked door to do—then that awful sharp report as she sank down—down into smothering blackness.

She moved tentatively, discovered that the doctor's prognostications were proved correct. She was indeed bruised. But she could not lie here; she must get up presently and find out, if possible, just what had happened.

She crept cautiously and painfully out of bed, closed the window, turned on the spluttering radiator, slipped back into bed and cuddled deep into the coverlets.

BUY YOUR Majestic Radio from your local agent. Prices and terms to suit everyone. A. Braxton, 1018 E. Second St. Ph. 780-R. Mrs. Julia Evans, E. Market St., received the sad news of the death of her great-niece, Miss Audrey Wright, who was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright, of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Wright was formerly Miss Eva Nichols, a teacher in the public schools of this city. The deceased was a precocious young woman, notwithstanding the fact that she never fully recovered from an attack of infantile paralysis, which she suffered in early childhood. She graduated with honors from both high school in Washington, D. C., and Oberlin College. From the latter school she was awarded a scholarship to Bryn Mawr, since Christmas, 1929, Miss Wright had been a student in the University of Chicago, where she was fatally stricken with spinal meningitis about a week ago. Her mother, who was called to her bedside, accompanied the remains to Washington where burial will be made.

The Theater

School is out now, not only for the thousands of school children all over the country but for the 250 children who attend the Professional Children's School in New York City, one of the most unusual schools in the world.

Everyone of the children enrolled in this school has been engaged in some sort of theatrical work and about 100 are always on the road, continuing their studies through correspondence courses.

The school was started about fifteen years ago after a group of women at the Rehearsal Club, a club and home for stage women—noticed children coming into the cafeteria day after day. Acting at night, rehearsing during the day and frequently on the road, they had little opportunity for regular schooling. So one of the women started to hold classes at the club.

Among the six children who were in the first class were Lila Lee and Mary Miles Minter, both of whom after being famous in motion pictures.

When Tom Brown was playing recently in New York in "Many a Slip," traffic was held up for him as he rushed from his theater to the radio studio, from which he broadcasts the role of Elmer in the Monday night program of "Al Folks." He was considered too important to use a substitute.

Both Eddie Wragge, aged 10 and his sister, Elizabeth, 12, have become known to radio audiences. Eddie had a juvenile role in the Theater Guild production of Turgenyev's "A Month in the Country" and his sister broadcasts as "Sister" in "The Lady Next Door" and in the Penrod Hour. She has had roles in a number of talks and stage productions.

Carolyn Sammon at the age of seven, had a part in the English revue "This Year of Grace" last year and has also done work over the radio and in the silent movies.

Dorothy Lull, who graduates from the school course with high honors this year, was a featured dancer in "Earl Carroll's Vanities" last year in New York and early this year on the road. She has never attended another school and, with the exception of a year in New York, all of her

PROBLEMS OF RURAL TEACHER REVEALED IN STATE MAGAZINE

The following article, in the form of a letter to "Ohio Schools," the official organ of the Ohio Education Association, is being reprinted by request as discussing a topic of general interest to teachers:

UNLOVELY PROVINCIALISM

The writer of the article "Who Should Teach?" summed up in a paragraph his ideal teacher. As an introduction it will be necessary to repeat his summary. "Every teacher should possess the best of character and should believe in God, in his country, and in his fellowmen. He should have tact, spirit, vision, interest, patience, sympathy as well as adequate scholarship. Teachers should teach because they love to teach children, love to watch them grow, develop, and unfold."

We teachers of the rural schools want to know what we should reasonably expect from the community in return for the above characteristics. We agree heartily with the writer on the points laid down, and we should like to show what becomes of those noble qualities when taken into our smaller communities.

First of all, may we explain our attitude toward the teaching profession, in order that our spirit be not taken for one of vindictiveness or of alibi?

Some of us have come from accredited schools of education with degrees in education, state certificates, and unquestioned moral character. We are willing to do our studying by the light of kerosene lamps, perform our Saturday ablutions in the family wash-tub, and listen to sermons redolent of the medieval theology. We are content to teach as the hand-caps of poor equipment, bad home training, and unsanitary conditions, trying in our feeble way to raise the prevalent standard.

Returning to Mr. Barnes' qualifications, we shall see what success they have in the hands of those who employ us.

"Every teacher should possess the best of character." In a small village last year, a principal and one of his teachers, having some extra work to do on the county examinations, decided to do that work one Sunday afternoon. As all of the necessary material was in the school building they spent the afternoon there working. We should think that that was in keeping with the spirit of the highest ideal of service to a school and community. The article mentioned before stated that the real teacher should be in contrast "to the teacher who never gives school a thought when away from the building, one who merely does enough to get by," and we cite this case as an example of that kind of loyalty. How was that received by the community? By the next day those teachers were bereft of their good characters—they were made to feel that they had done an immoral thing in being in a school alone dizzy and staggering spells. My stomach bloated terribly after meals and the pains in that region were very severe. I had pains around my heart and was frequently short of breath.

"In this condition I began taking Konjola and the improvement amazed both me and my family. The first three bottles helped wonderfully and I eagerly kept on with the treatment. After I had completed the seventh bottle my health troubles were over. I am free from aches and pains and my digestion is as good as it was twenty years ago. My kidneys and liver function perfectly. My entire family has taken this medicine and been benefited."

Konjola is a new and different medicine containing the juices of 22 roots and herbs compounded with other medicinal ingredients. It works with the sufferer's food, eliminating poisons and restoring normal activity to the weakened organs.

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia, Ohio, at the Gallaher Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

together. The question was not dropped; it was passed from mouth to mouth, magnified and distorted beyond recognition, and finally was the reason for their not being hired the following year. What chance had a good character in that situation? That same sort of thing is being multiplied over and over in our small communities.

We are asked to welcome the visits of parents to the schools. What if parents won't visit us? We feel that they should know what their children are doing and should get that information directly from the schoolroom, and we invite them to come. No one, not even a board member in many cases, ever visits us; yet they feel well enough informed to talk glibly and viciously of what is taking place behind those closed doors. Do not tell us to welcome them—give us some formula for compelling them to come—or forever hold their peace.

"There are teachers who engage in activities during leisure time that are harmful and conducive to poor work the next day." Suppose a teacher is hard at work some evening coaching a community play, and some one decides that she is attending a picture show with a married man. A car that resembled the teacher's was seen going up the road. That was conclusive proof that she was indulging in illegitimate recreation.

The question may be asked, "Why do you continue to teach in small communities, if these things are true?" Our answer is that we enjoy working with a small group of pupils. In these village schools we have a better opportunity to study the children, to give them individual attention, and to have a hand in every phase of the school work instead of being merely a cog in a big educational machine. Moreover, we feel that the rural boys and girls have as much right to a well-trained teacher as the city pupils. The rural students are teachable because the ultra-modern sophistication has not closed their minds to the joy that may be found in good scholarship. And so, we of the rural schools answer you by saying that your definition of a good teacher meets our approval; that we try to live up to it and that we enjoy doing so. But we also say that we are becoming weary of being bandied about by boards of education, having our positions taken away from us when we do not deserve it, and having our reputations of long years' standing sullied by narrow and vicious minds.

The State Department of Education says that a "board may refuse to reappoint a teacher for any reason at all, valid or invalid," and we cry out with David, "Oh, State, how long?"
